1942. 'In another exchange between a number of individuals discussing their desire to commit attacks against Jewish and black Americans, a user named Grimoire touted the value of his combat experience to the cause by claiming to have killed civilians as a serviceman on a tour in Afghanistan. "I know what it's like to kill women and children," he said. "Being a squad machine gunner in Afghanistan I just sprayed belts of lead at targets, and there were dead women and children in circumstances, sometimes it'd be a kid that started shooting at us in the first place." In another exchange, Grimoire tried to direct the conversation towards explosives making. "Let's talk about pipe bombs," he said after a discussion on climate change. '
